Pohangina River

The Pohangina River has its source on the western flank of the Ruahine Ranges and flows southward to join the Manawatu River at Ashhurst. It contains extensive gravel beaches often lined with willows and other natives which provide pools and stretches of water with excellent cover for trout. Good trout numbers occur along the length of the river. Popular locations are either adjacent to the bridge at Raumai where a picnic area provides easy riverbank access or at Totara Reserve, a further 10km upstream. It is a river best suited to fishing to sighted fish, although nymphing, spinning or bait fishing the fast water in runs or the heads of pools, is worth trying. There is also superb backcountry fishing a long way into the ranges for the adventurous angler.

ATTENTION ANGLERS

Sections of riverbed covered by this pamphlet may be in private ownership, which means anglers do not necessarily have a right of access. Some landowners may have agreed to anglers having access along the riverbed without having to obtain permission first.

Please respect the privilege of access. Once you are on the river, stay within the riverbed and do not wander on to adjacent farmland without the express permission of the landowner. If you require clarification around where you are legally entitled to go, please visit the Walking Access Commission website - www.wams.org.nz - and use the public access layers.

Conditions Of Access:

- NO dogs. NO camping. NO fires. NO vehicles on the riverbed.
- Leave gates as you find them.

Please Note:

Fish & Game has endeavoured to show where legal public access exists to and along this river. Because of a variety of factors beyond our control, this is a guideline only. The onus of avoiding trespassing on private land rests with the angler and, where doubt arises, landowner permission should be sought. If any difficulty occurs through the use of this information, please contact Wellington Fish & Game.
